Q: What inspired you to create the "Conundrum Kids" series?

A: I was inspired by my own childhood experiences. I was always a curious kid, and I loved solving puzzles and mysteries. I wanted to create a series of books that would encourage kids to use their imaginations and problem-solving skills.

Q: How did you come up with the characters for the series?

A: The characters in the series are based on my friends and family members. I wanted to create a group of kids who were diverse and relatable, and who would appeal to a wide range of readers.

Q: What is your creative process like?

A: I usually start by brainstorming ideas for a story. Once I have a general idea, I start sketching out the characters and the setting. I then develop the story and the puzzles. I usually work on several projects at once, and I often get inspiration from real-life events or experiences.

Q: What are your hopes for the future of your work?

A: I hope that my work will continue to inspire and entertain children and adults alike. I want to create stories that are both fun and educational, and that will help kids to develop their imaginations and their problem-solving skills.
